Hi, everyone. Welcome to Tomato Line. I’m your DJ, Jenny. Today I’m going to play one of my favorite songs- Starry Starry Night. This song was written by an American singer Don McLean. He wrote it as a tribute to Vincent van Gogh. So the song has another name “Vincent.” Starry Night is one of Vincent van Gogh’s famous paintings. The painting is famous for its unique style. Unlike most of van Gogh’s famous works, Starry Night was from the memory, but not out in the landscape. Van Gogh never got rich by selling paintings in his lifetime though he is famous now. It is said that he only sold one painting. This song touches my heart every time when I listen to it. This is really a great song. Now turn up the volume and enjoy the song with me.

* tribute 尊崇 * landscape 風景 * volume 音量

29. Where does Jenny work?

 - (C) He wrote the song to make money.
 - (D) He wrote the song to remember van Gogh.

32. Which is NOT true?

- (A) Don McLean drew the famous painting- Starry Night.
- (B) Don McLean is an American singer.
- (C) Van Gogh never made a lot of money by selling paintings.
- (D) Jenny likes the song Starry Starry Night a lot.

It all began on a special day, “University Colors Day”, in an elementary school in Florida. On that day, elementary school students could wear clothes with the logo of their favorite university sports teams. One boy did not have much money to spend on any clothes of his favorite university team, so he used his talent to make his own T-shirt. He drew the university logo on a piece of paper and pinned it on a T-shirt. The boy was so happy to show his T-shirt to his teacher, but later on that day, he went back to the classroom in tears after his classmates picked on him for his DIY T-shirt. Because some of the students were so mean and laughed at him, he began crying.

When his teacher saw him crying, she wrote the boy’s story on Facebook. “I couldn’t stand it anymore! We should take this more seriously.” said the teacher. A few days later, one of the boy’s favorite university’s members saw the teacher’s Facebook and told to others. Some of the university students decided to turn the logo into real T-shirts and sold them as official ones. They also sent the boy a lot of gifts, like T-shirts and hats. Moreover, they made money by selling the boy’s T-shirt and will donate all of it to an anti-bullying charity.

三、單字填空（每格二分，20%）

There were t41ds of people at Taylor Swift's concert last night. Taylor dressed up as a lovely princess in the c42e(城堡) when she appeared in the beginning. Although it was raining, Taylor didn't forget to prepare u43as for her fans. Everybody cheered for her and felt p44d of being able to be one of her fans. All of her words and simple a45ns(行為) let her fans feel not l46ly(孤單) anymore. Taylor sang and danced as p47e as she could. She just looked like a s48ng(閃亮) star when she stood on the stage. Most of her fans c49ped their hands loudly and kept shouting "Encore"(安可) at the end of the concert. To e50e this kind of concert was really a great meaning to these fans in their lifetime. Taylor was one of the greatest singers of all time.
