Max : You finished the triathlon. You're great!

Tina : Thanks. It's not that hard. Maybe you can join me next time.

Max : No, I can't even finish a marathon.

Tina : Never say no. By the way, do you know the origin of marathons?

Max : Well... I don't know.

Tina : It was from Greece about 2,500 years ago. A Persian army came to Marathon, a city in Greece, to take over the place.

Max : Wow. It was a long time ago.

Tina : Yes. At that time, people had to send a runner or a messenger on the horseback, and they could communicate.

Max : Oh! That's cool.

Tina : So the Greeks sent out a runner Philippides. He ran a round trip from Marathon to Sparta for about 150 miles. It was really a great record, and it still is. When the Persians won the war, they chose Philippides to run 25 miles from Marathon to Athens to tell them the good news.

Max : Wow. What happened to Philippides in the end?

Tina : Philippides made it. However, he was too tired, so he fell down and then died. But he is still a great runner.

Max : What? He died because of running? I have to go now.

Wei Tesheng is a director from Taiwan, and he is famous for the two movies—Seediq Bale and Cape No. 7. Wei met a friend in his early 20s. He told Wei a lot about movies, so Wei started to feel interested in movies.

Wei didn't have any jobs about movies before, so he had to work as an assistant when he started out. In 2003, Wei planned to make the movie Seediq Bale. However, he stopped because he didn't have enough money. Then he made Cape NO. 7. After it became a hit in 2008, he made the movie Seediq Bale. Because it was a movie about Taiwanese history, Wei had many problems when he made it. Wei didn't give up. He borrowed money from lots of people. Some helped him, but some didn't.

In 2011, people saw the movie Seediq Bale in the theater. They cried because the story really moved all the people. And they can feel Wei's love for his movies.
