Dear Mr. Stopps,

I'm writing to tell you about our worker, Anna Su. Since 2009, Anna has been working as my personal secretary, and I'm very satisfied with the job she has done. She does everything from booking my flights to organizing my meeting. She is smart, considerate, and hardworking. She does her job without complaining, and she is always friendly at work.

Right now, we have an opening in our department for the position of Account Associate. I think that Anna's experience and diligence make her perfect for the position. I highly recommend her as a candidate.

- (II) There are a lot of things we don't know about the ocean. Large parts of the ocean floor have never been seen by anyone. People believe that it's important to explore and learn more about these places.
- But how can we explore the bottom of the ocean? There is too much water pressure for our bodies to go down there. We need an ROV to explore it. An ROV is a machine that can move and take pictures under water, and it is controlled by the people on the ship. It can work well under the water pressure at the ocean bottom. Some can even bring rocks from the ocean bottom up to the water surface for people to study. ROVs can help us learn more about our ocean world and help us take better care of it.
