Dear Dr. Know-It-All,

My son is too thin. He looks pale and weak. In addition, he's always tired and he gets sick easily. Sometimes, he even gets dizzy and falls down. I don't understand why. My wife and I make sure he eats all of his meals every day. What can we do?

Sincerely.

Worried Dad

---

Dear Worried Dad,

Your son may eat a lot, but this doesn't mean that he is eating well. For your son to become tall and strong, he needs to eat the right food. Is he eating lots of protein? To get protein, he should eat eggs, red meat, and tofu. He should also drink milk. This will help develop strong and healthy bones.

If your son gets sick easily, then give him lots of vitamin C. To prevent your son from catching the flu from his classmates, make sure he has enough fruit and water.

Sincerely,

Dr. Know-It-All
