This is Ken's writing for his English writing class:

Do you collect something as a hobby? All my family do. My father collects coins. He always says that it is a good way to learn history from coins because they usually have important people or buildings of that country on them. And this is why he has loved and been good at history since he was in elementary school. Some of Dad's collections are from Grandfather. They are ancient and special, bigger and with square holes in them. Some of his collections come from the countries he has been to, and some are from his friends. My mother collects stamps. In her eyes, each stamp is like a piece of artwork. She always wears gloves when touching them. Like Dad, she has got her stamps from her trips abroad or her friends. As for me, I collect toy cars. I have been crazy about cars since I was three. To satisfy my great interest in cars, Dad and Mom keep buying me toy cars. All my relatives that know about my interest never fail to give me toy cars as birthday presents. So far, I have collected more than 300 toy cars, all of which are kept in the cupboard in my room.
