題組 B(34-36)

In a world where technology advances quickly, it is possible that our world would be filled with "glass" in the future.

In 2011, a company made two videos about how our future life would be like if it is made of glass. The first video was about the life of a mother, who is a designer, and the father, who is a doctor. When the mother woke up, the glass walls inside the bathroom can work as her cellphone. The glass told her what she is going to do today. For example, she has a meeting today, and needs to wear nice clothes. The glass walls can even help her with choosing clothes! As for the father, he could use the glass wall to project the body of the sick people and could see the parts that went wrong.

Although it sounds very cool and interesting, a world full of glass could have lots of problems as well. Some people are worried about the privacy because your fingerprints can stay on the glass for a long time; some people worry that the glass would be dirty, and people might get sick using it; and others worry that it would cost a lot of money.

題組B(37-40)

The following is what Eve said in an interview about her life:

"I can't thank the Watsons enough for taking me in and making me a part of their family. Never in my wildest dreams did I think they would take a chance on a teenager like me, but I'm glad they did.

As the oldest in Glory House, I had given up on anybody wanting me. That's because most of the couples that I saw there wanted babies first. I can understand that because the babies would grow up and not have any memory of their real parents. Then, if the couples had no other choice, they would consider the younger children. Very few of them ever looked my way, so I stopped making an effort and just kept to myself.

On the day that Becky and Jim showed up, I was reading a book in the far corner of the yard. I was surprised when they came over and sat down beside me. They asked me about the book and how I liked it, and I told them what I really felt. Becky liked how I saw the story because she had felt the same way when she read it as a kid. Jim liked the way I spoke my mind, even to strangers. He saw how strong and confident I was. They told me later that was the moment they knew I was the one for them."
