Why do people go shopping in convenience stores? One reason is that these stores are convenient. They are open twenty-four hours a day, they sell many different things, and they are found on almost every street in the city. But some people go to convenience stores for different reasons.

My brother, for example, is crazy about Winnie the Pooh. He buys everything to do with it: hats, T-shirts, handbags, cups, notebooks. Since one of the convenience stores near our house started to give free Winnie the Pooh merchandise to customers who spent more than 50, my brother began doing all of his shopping there. He bought drinks we didn't need and he even bought our breakfast, lunch and dinner there. He did these for only one reason-to complete his collection. I have to say, being crazy about something can waste money, but it still makes some people happy.
